

Selling Dhanteras in local sellers

ops, owners say sales this year s placing large gift orders ment resonating among them market share has only strengthened over the years, they said. With a focus on the next "100 million buyers", Snapdeal, an India-based e-commerce website, told PTI that it has seen a 2.5-times increase in orders this year and 75 per cent of all orders were received from non-metro cities. Besides the competition from online market, Mukesh Goyal of Kriti Creations blames the increasing prices of decorative and festive essentials for a dampened sale year after year. "The common man is troubled with increasing prices.

Essential items like statues of deities are taxable, camphor, which is important for Diwali rituals, is selling with 18 per cent GST. Earlier we had to pay only 5 per cent VAT on it," he said. Despite a seemingly excited crowd thronging Goyal's shop in Khan Market, he said that the sales this year have not improved as the people "who used to buy statues worth ₹21,000, are going away with those of ₹1,100". "Nobody is placing large gift orders anymore" is a common sentiment resonating among local sellers like Singh and Goyal.
